NOTIFICATION.

Port St. George, March 25, 1918.

The following notification of the Government of India is republished:—

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

TELEGRAMS.

Dated, the 1st March 1918.

No. 1851-D.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 7 of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1915 (XIII of 1915), the Government-General in Council is pleased to direct that the following amended rules shall be made in the rules published with the notification of the Government of India to the Department of Commerce and Industry No. 2972-137, dated the 18th September 1909, or subsequently amended, namely:—

1. For rule 16 the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"16. Telegrams, etc.—The text of telegrams telegraphed may be in plain language, in code language, or in cipher, or partly in one and partly in the other:—

(a) Plain Language is that which affects no intelligible sense in English, or in any foreign language, or in any of the vernacular languages subject to the conditions of rule 17

- (b) By "Telegrams in Plain Language" is understood those of which the text is written entirely in plain language. Nevertheless, the presence of such addresses, exchange quotations, numbered marks, letters representing the signs of the International Code of Signals employed in maritime telegrams, or abbreviated addresses commonly used in ordinary or commercial correspondence such as exp., h., o., ad., adv., py., n., h., ad., py., am., g., h., or any other analogous abbreviations, the meaning of which is understood at the time of receipt, does not alter the character of a telegram as plain language.
- (c) If in a telegram in which the text is written entirely in plain language, any single word or unaltered compound consists more than 16 characters according to the Morse alphabet, the telegram is counted separately as one word.
- (d) Only disjuncts are those which are composed of words which do not form intelligible phrases in one or more of the languages mentioned for telegraphic correspondence in plain language. The words, whether genuine or artificial, must be formed as syllables capable of pronunciation according to the several laws of one of the following languages, namely—

English, French, German, Italian, Dutch, Spanish, Portuguese or Latin. Artificial words must not contain the accented letters é, ê, ë, ï, ö, ü. Genuine vocabulary words are also admissible.

- (e) Words in code language must not contain more than 10 characters according to the Morse alphabet (Rule 17), the combinations ah, ah, oh, oh, being counted as two letters each. The combination "ah" is also counted as two letters in artificial words.
- (f) Combinations, which do not fulfil the conditions of clauses (d) and (e), are considered as belonging to letter cipher language (clause (j)) and changed accordingly. Compounds composed of two or more words in plain language, considered arbitrary as the scope of the language are not admitted. [See Rule 20 (b) of exp.]
- (g) Cipher language is that in which signs or groups or series of double signs having a secret meaning, or of letters (excluding the accented letters é, ê, ë, ï, ö, ü, groups or series of letters having a secret meaning.
- (h) Of words, groups, expressions or combinations of letters not fulfilling the conditions of plain language (clauses (c), (d) and (e)) or of code language (clauses (d) and (e)).
- (i) The requirement to give groups of figures and letters having a secret meaning is not absolute. It is desirable to avoid the use of letter cipher, as far as possible, as it is less apt to transmit than pronounceable groups of letters, and is, therefore, more liable to error. In cases where it is necessary to employ letter cipher it should be arranged in groups of five letters in order to facilitate transmission.
- (j) The groups referred to in clause (i) are not considered as letter cipher, namely, as letters having a secret meaning.
- (k) Words in plain language intended for the text of a mixed telegram, that is, a telegram composed of words in plain language and words in code language, must not contain more than ten characters corresponding to the Morse alphabet, and any single word is counted separately as one word in each case.
- (l) If the mixed language contains, in address, cipher language, the passages in cipher are counted according to the stipulations of rule 15.
- (m) If the mixed telegram is composed only of passages in plain language and of passages in cipher language, the passages in plain language are counted according to the stipulations of clause (d) and the passages in cipher language according to those of rule 15.
- (n) The address or sender's name in telegrams of which the text is written wholly or partly in code language is changed according to the stipulations of rule 15 and clause (g).
- (o) Reversed alphabetical addresses are treated as plain language (clause (i)) when occurring in the address or when made's name in both plain and code language telegrams and also in the text in cipher language telegrams. When in the text of a code language telegram, they are treated according to clause (j).

2. For rule 17 the following rule shall be substituted, namely—

"17. Language—The text of State telegrams may in all cases be composed of code language (that is, words not subject to the combination in the code telegram of figures and letters, having a secret meaning) or not addressed."

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make provision in special circumstances to supplement the ordinary criminal law and for the exercise of emergency powers by the Government was presented to the Indian Legislative Council on the 1st March 1893.

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill is made provision in special circumstances to supplement the ordinary criminal law and for the exercise of emergency powers by Government, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us, to the Council.

When we proceed to set out the modifications of detail which we have made in the Bill, we may state at once that we do not propose to alter the emergency provisions which were suggested in the Bill as so far as they were destructive of the general principles of the Bill. Amendments of this kind should be brought forward in Council which in the appropriate mode for their consideration.

As a consequence that has been widely expressed in accordance with the Bill under our consideration is, that its provisions if they become law might be used or rather abused for the purpose of suppressing legitimate political activities. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has on several occasions explained his own intention in unambiguous terms. We, however, consider that, in order to avoid the possibility of such a view being reasonably maintained, the Bill should itself clearly lay down the limits of the exercise of such a power. With this object before us, Members, we have made several amendments to make it clear that, as the long title states, the Bill is a Bill to give to the Government and to the Council the power to make laws in special circumstances, with what might possibly be considered emergency powers, we have retained words which, in our opinion, place the object and scope of the Bill beyond all doubt.

The Bill, as originally drawn, suggested to make a permanent addition to the Statute-book. The desire which was expressed in Council that it would be desirable to devote to a period of three years from the introduction of the Bill, which we have given effect to by the new sub-clause

(3) of clause 1, has enabled us to revise certain other provisions of the Bill, notably the important clause 26. The duration of the Bill, moreover, applies as generally as possible to the question of revision of its provisions, a question which otherwise might have arisen.

4. We will now refer to the detailed amendments which we have made in the Bill in so far as they have not already been disposed of by the foregoing remarks.

5. We have altered the definition of "witness against the State" in clause 2, so that it now only applied to clause 19, and for the reason, which we give in dealing with that clause has now disappeared from the Bill.

6. Clause 3.—We have amended the language of this clause with that of clause 22, so that these clauses should correspond as closely as may be in the nature of the discussion they require.

7. Clause 4.—It seems to us desirable that once an accused has been committed for trial, an order should be made under this section, and we have accordingly inserted the words "at the Court of Sessions" so as to exclude cases where commitments were taken into account in that court as to the High Court. In this respect we follow the precedent of the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1914. We think further that the accused is entitled to have notice of the provisions which the prosecution intend to put forward in his case, and we have amended the wording of sub-clause (2) in accordance with this view.

8. Clause 5.—The new proviso to this clause, which requires that in the Bill as referred to it, must be regarded as a compromise between conflicting influences. On the one hand, we recognize that the importance of a trial trial may in particular circumstances only be fully realized by the Executive Government; on the other hand, we are anxious to restrict the authority of the Government General in George II in such a matter. The provision we suggest seems to us a reasonable one.

9. Clause 6.—We have slightly amended this clause so as to require the prosecution to open its case, that following the lines of section 238 of the Criminal Procedure.

10. Clause 7.—In relation to the witness of some Members of the Committee, we have extended the period of adjournment, which is provided for by this clause from ten to fourteen days.

11. Clause 8.—We think it desirable that a full record of the evidence should be made, but not that it should necessarily be recorded by the Court itself. The amendments made in this clause are intended to give effect to this view.

12. Clause 9.—We have amended the provisions of this clause to bring it more closely into line with the provisions of 81 and 82 Victoria, c. 26, and have included in the clause the provisions of that Act prohibiting comments by the prosecution on the failure of an accused to give evidence, and providing that if he does give evidence he shall do so from the witness-box. These provisions are probably of considerably less importance in a trial such as that which will be held under the Bill by three High Court Judges, but as their insertion is urged on us by some Members of the Committee we have deemed it their views.

13. Clause 11.—We have been pleased to amend clause 11 on the lines of section 11 (4) of the Irish Act of 1912 (45 and 46 Vict., c. 26), but after considering the matter carefully, we feel that there is no reason to depart from the proposal in the Bill, which is indeed on the same lines as the corresponding provision in the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1914.

14. Clause 12.—It is our intention that it is used in the Bill will be for, and we would only allow a variation under it in respect of an offence against any provision of the law which is referred to in the Schedule.

15. Clause 13.—We have made the intention of the rule-making power in item 1 of this clause clear by the insertion of the words "to complete the Court," and we have enabled rules to be made to provide for the appropriate custody of the accused.

16. Clause 14.—With the introduction of a definite reference to searched and sequestrated property in this clause, it seems to us to follow that the term "scheduled offences" must be understood to be the words "offences against the State" which formerly applied in this clause. A convenient reference to the language of clause 22 will of course show that they were intended to be the same, and we have amended the language of clause 22 so that they now stand side by side, the programme of emergency which will justify the application, respectively, of Part II and Part III of the Bill.

17. Clause 15.—We have limited the purposes for which security can be taken under this clause to the very definite cases which we now set out in the Bill. A need to be of good behaviour would, on the analogy of section 121 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, have covered the case of any offence punishable with imprisonment, and we do not think that it is necessary to go as far as that. We have also made a small amendment at the end of this clause to show that reports to the police are to be made at the nearest police station.

18. Clause 16.—We have modified the language of this clause to make it clear that emergency force is not covered by the terms of this clause.

19. Clause 17.—This important clause received our most careful consideration. The provisions contemplated in a fundamental basis of the reconstruction of the British Government, and any material changes in the nature of the reorganizing body will completely destroy the efficacy of the procedure it contemplates. We think, however, that the following conditions only in force without unduly affecting the procedure. In the first place, we think that the Government should not set out material facts in the prosecution whether in favour of or against the accused, and we have therefore amended the words "it is supported by the State" at the end of sub-clause (1) to the words "relevant to the inquiry." We have made a slight but very important change at the end of sub-clause (2) where we require that the investigating authority shall make such further investigation, if any, as appears to such authority to be relevant and necessary. The only ground therefore for refusing to supply the State with the present clause now is under the investigation of the facts in advance with that such inquiry did not appear to the investigating authority to be relevant and necessary. This is an important change in the substance of this sub-clause. We have been compelled to repeat certain points affecting the procedure in sub-clause (2). We recognize the force and ability with which some of them were pressed, but to give effect to the amendments would be to destroy the whole procedure under this part of the Bill. We have inserted a new sub-clause (3) with the object

Points of Importance.

We recognize that the Bill, as altered by the Select Committee, is not open to two objections to which it was open in its original form. Its duration has been limited to three years, and by words put into the preamble and various clauses its application has been restricted to offences connected with scheduled and pre-emptory movements. Formerly wider improvements have therefore been made. Still we disagree of the policy and principles of the Bill and must reserve our right to express it separately. Without prejudice to this right we proceed to make some observations and suggestions with reference to the provisions.

Clause 11.—We are not satisfied that it is desirable to introduce in this statute the principle of giving an accused person the option of offering himself to be examined in a witness. One of us, Mr. Kalkreuth Esq., however, thinks it is an advantage and approval of its introduction. But we are all agreed that, if it is introduced, a safeguard should be provided in addition to the one embodied in sub-clause (3). It should be something in this effect: "Nor shall the court make any inference adverse to the accused from such failure on his part."

Clause 12.—We cannot agree that, in the case of a difference of opinion among the judges, the opinion of the majority should prevail in order to result in a conviction. Following the example of the Irish Criminal Act, we would make conviction dependent on the unanimous opinion of the judges.

Clause 24.—It appears to us necessary to take care that the special procedure of this part of the Bill is not used for the trial of scheduled persons generally. We would insert a proviso in clause 11 according as follows: "Provided that, when the court is called upon to pass, whether of the offences with which he was charged or of evidence, it shall record a finding that such offence is connected with an scheduled or pre-emptory movement."

Clause 27.—This clause takes away the right of appeal to a High Court. We think it should be provided, on the contrary, that, on the analogy of the Irish Criminal Act, an appeal would lie in each case to a full bench of the High Court consisting of not less than five judges.

Clause 22.—It is part of our general objection to the Bill that no restriction should be imposed on the personal liberty of a citizen except as the result of a conviction in a court of law. Excepting Part I, the rest of the Bill gives sanction to such restrictions by mere executive order. Assuming, however, that it is necessary to give the executive Government such extraordinary power, we indicate below certain points on which we differ from the majority report. We suggest that, before passing an order under clause 21 against any person, the least favourable should be required to place all the evidence relating to him on before a judicial officer not below the rank of a District and sessions judge and take his opinion thereon.

Clause 23.—This clause (1) makes it obligatory on the investigating authority to hold the inquiry in camera. We think it sufficient to provide for the inquiry being in camera if and when the investigating authority thinks it necessary.

We would provide that this authority shall not only hear any explanation, but take any evidence that the person in question may have to offer.

The last proviso to the sub-clause (1) denies the person in question the right of appearing or being represented by pleader. We are, on the contrary, of opinion that such right should be expressly accorded.

Sub-clause (2) says that the investigating authority shall not be bound to observe the rules of the law of evidence. We would provide instead that such authority shall be bound, so far as possible, to observe those rules.

Clause 25.—We do not consider it an fit first protection that a person against whose restriction orders are issued should be allowed after such removal to make a representation to be placed before the investigating authority, as is provided in sub-clause (4). We are of opinion that an order under clause 21 should be executed for a further period without the case being referred to the investigating authority a second time and the person in question being allowed, more or less in accordance with the procedure under clause 15, an opportunity of being heard.

Clause 26.—We consider that the investigating authority should consist of two persons who have held judicial office not inferior to that of a District and sessions judge and one non-official Indian.

Clause 27.—We recommend that, before orders are passed against any person under this clause, the same procedure be adopted as we have recommended under clause 21 (a), the material of the case should be referred for opinion to a judicial officer not below the rank of a District and sessions judge.

Clause 27.—We would of course modify the procedure under this clause in the same item as the procedure under clause 26 and 28.

In conclusion we strongly recommend that, in view of the substantial changes suggested above and in view of the fact that the Bill embodies principles wholly at variance with the principles of the ordinary criminal law, the Bill be re-examined and referred for opinion to the Local Government and the High Courts and important public bodies and individuals.

Notes of Dissent.

When the Bill was first introduced it was contemplated by Government to lay down a permanent legislation in the matter which, it was feared, would to a great extent curtail the liberty of the people. On the objection of the people's representatives in the Imperial Legislative Council, Government ultimately declined the suggestion to introduce it only as a temporary measure; and thus a considerable portion of its harmful nature was reduced.

The Bill as it has now emerged out of the Select Committee is a decided improvement on the one originally introduced in the Council. In the original draft of the Bill the Procurator was in general terms, but by the addition of the words "for the purpose of dealing with unauthorised and revolutionary movements" it is the Procurator of the Bill as amended by the Select Committee the scope has been much limited. Several other improvements have likewise been made and they, coupled with the words added to the Procurator mentioned above, have greatly improved its objectionable character.

I am however in dissent on the following points from the majority report:—

25. (2) Some words to the following effect should be added to the sub-clause "nor shall the Procurator make any inducement adverse to the accused from such witness on his part."

26. (2) Of the three persons constituting the investigating authority one should be person who have held judicial office not inferior to that of a District and Sessions Judge.

Now as the Bill has given rise to considerable nervous agitation in the country and opposition meetings are being held in every quarter and as certain vital changes have been introduced in it by the amendments made by the Select Committee whereby its objectionable character has been much reduced if not removed almost, it will be proper for Government to publish the Bill again in the official gazette.

BILL No. 8 OF 1912.

[BILL AS INTRODUCED BY THE CHIEF JUSTICE.]

[Which printed in italics indicate the amendments suggested by the Select Committee.]

A Bill to cope with anarchical and revolutionary crime.

It enacted it is expedient to make provision, that the ordinary criminal law should be supplemented and emergency powers should be available by the Government for the purpose of dealing with anarchical and revolutionary movements;

And whereas the previous approval of the Secretary of State in Council has been accorded to the making of this law, it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Anarchical and Revolutionary Crimes Act, 1912;

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; and,

(3) It shall not have effect for three years from the date of the commencement of the present year.

Definition. 2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant to the subject or construction—and (2) All words and expressions used in this Act as defined in the Code, and not hereinbefore defined, shall be deemed to have the meanings respectively attributed to them in the Code.

PART I.

3. If the Governor-General in Council is satisfied that, in the whole or any part of British India, anarchy or revolutionary movements are being propagated, and that scheduled offences in connection with such movements are prevalent to such an extent that it is expedient in the interests of the public safety to provide for the speedy trial of such offences, he may, by notification in the Gazette of India, make a declaration to that effect, and thereupon the provisions of this Part shall come into force in the area specified in the notification.

4. (1) Where the local Government is of opinion that the trial of any person accused of a scheduled offence should be held in accordance with the provisions of this Part, it may cause any officer of Government to prepare a written information to the Chief Justice against such person.

(2) No order under sub-section (1) shall be made in respect of, or be deemed to include, any person who has been committed under the Code for trial before a High Court, or a Court of Session; but, save as aforesaid, an order under this sub-section may be made in respect of any scheduled offence whether such offence was committed before or after the issue of the notification under section 3.

(3) The information shall state the offence charged and as far as known the name, place of residence, and occupation of the accused, and the time and place when and where the offence is alleged to have been committed and all particulars within the knowledge of the prosecutor of facts intended to be proved against the accused.

(4) The Chief Justice may by order require any information to be forwarded to him to supply further particulars of the offence charged to the accused, and shall direct a copy of the information or the amended information, as the case may be, to be served upon the accused in such manner as the Chief Justice may direct.

5. Upon such service being effected, and on application duly made to him, the Chief Justice constituted in Court shall nominate three of the High Court Judges (hereinafter referred to as the Court) for the trial of the information, and shall fix a date for the commencement of the trial.

Provided that, when the total number of Judges of the High Court does not exceed three, the Chief Justice shall nominate not more than two such Judges, and shall complete the Court by the nomination of one or, if necessary, two persons of either of the following classes, namely:—

(a) persons who have served as permanent Judges of the High Court, or

(b) with the consent of the Chief Justice of another High Court, persons who are Judges of that High Court.

6. The Court may sit for the whole or any part of a trial at such place or places in the place of sitting as it may consider desirable.

Provided that if the Advocate-General considers it to be in his opinion necessary in the interests of justice that the whole or any part of a trial shall be held at some place other than the usual place of sitting of the High Court, the Chief Justice, after having the consent, made in order in that effect, of the Advocate-General to be recorded in writing, shall, if it is made any other order. It shall not be necessary for the satisfaction of the Advocate-General to be supported by any affidavit, nor shall he be required to state the grounds upon which such certificate was given.

7. The provisions of the Code shall apply to proceedings under the Part, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions therein contained, and such proceedings shall be deemed to be proceedings under the Code, and the Court shall have all the powers conferred by the Code on a Court of Session exercising original jurisdiction.

Application of Code of Criminal Procedure shall not be subject to this Part.

10. (2) The trial shall be commenced by the reading of the indictment, and thereafter the prosecutor shall state briefly by what evidence he expects to prove the facts of the offence.

(3) The Court shall then, only in the previous of this Part, in trying the accused, follow the procedure prescribed by the Code for the trial of a witness sworn by Magistrate.

11. If a charge is framed, the accused shall be entitled to ask for an adjournment for preparing defence, or any two periods that he may specify, and the Court shall comply with his request, but subject to the adjournment provided for by this section, the Court shall not be bound to adjourn any trial for any purpose, unless such adjournment is in the opinion of the Court in the interests of justice.

12. The Court shall receive the evidence of such witnesses who are summoned to be examined in full in each manner as the Court may direct.

13. The Court, if it is of opinion that such a course is necessary in the public interest or for the protection of a witness, may prohibit or restrict in such way as it may direct the publication or disclosure of the proceedings or any part of the proceedings.

14. (2) No questions shall be put by the Court to the accused in the course of a trial under this Part until the close of the case for the prosecution. Thereafter, and before the accused gives evidence on his defence, the Court shall inform him as to the nature of the case against him and shall ask him whether he has any defence to put forward, and if he has, he shall be entitled to give evidence on his defence. (3) If when so called upon, the accused does not give evidence on his defence, the Court shall not at any subsequent stage put any questions to him.

Provided that if the accused does not so give evidence, then, after the witnesses for the defence have been examined, the Court may question the accused generally as the case is conducted with the provisions of the said section.

(4) The failure of the accused to give evidence in such trial shall not be made the subject of any comment by the Magistrate.

(5) If the accused gives evidence on oath, the following rules shall be observed, namely:— (a) He may be asked any question in connection with the offence charged, but he shall not be asked any question which is irrelevant to the case.

(b) He shall not be asked, and if asked shall not be required to answer, any question tending to show that he has committed or been convicted of, or has been charged with, any offence other than that with which he is then charged, or has a bad character, unless—

(i) proof that he has committed or been convicted of such other offence is admissible evidence to show that he is guilty of the offence with which he is then charged, or

(ii) witnesses for the prosecution have been cross-examined with a view to establish his own good character, or he has given evidence of his good character, or the nature or conduct of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of the witnesses for the prosecution, or

(iii) he has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence.

(6) Where evidence is given by the Court, he shall give his evidence from the witness box or other place from which the other witnesses give their evidence.

15. If the accused or any one of the accused calls and examines any witness, the right of final reply shall be with the prosecution, but in all other cases with the accused.

Provided that the examination of an accused as a witness shall not of itself confer the right of final reply on the prosecution.

17. If at any trial under this Part it is proved that the accused has committed an offence against any provision of the law which is referred to in the indictment, the Court may convict the accused of that offence although he was not charged with it.

18. The Court may pass upon any person convicted by it any sentence authorized by law for the punishment of the offence of which such person is convicted, and no order of confinement shall be necessary in the case of any sentence passed by it.

19. The judgment of the Court shall be final and conclusive and, notwithstanding the provisions of the Code or of any other law for the time being in force, or of anything having the force of law by whatsoever authority made or done, there shall be no appeal from any order or sentence of the Court, and no High Court shall have authority to revise any such order or sentence or to transfer any case from such Court, or to make any order under section 421 of the Code or have any jurisdiction of any kind in respect of any proceedings under this Part.

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the power of the Governor-General in Council or of the Local Government to make orders under section 421 or 422 of the Code in respect of any person sentenced by the Court.

20. (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, when—

(a) the statement of any person has been recorded by a Magistrate, and with statement has been read over and explained to the person making it and has been signed by him, or

(b) the statement of any person has been recorded by the Court, but such person has not been cross-examined, such witnesses may be admitted in evidence by the Court if the person making the case is dead or cannot be found or is incapable of giving evidence, and as established in the judgment of the Court that such death, disappearance or incapacity has been proved in the interests of the accused.

(7) Depositions recorded under section 311 of the Code may, in the circumstances specified in that section, be given in evidence at the trial of an accused under this Part.

Power to make rules. 16. The Chief Justice may from time to time make rules providing for—

(1) the appointment and powers of a President of the Court and the procedure to be adopted to enable the Court in the case of any Judge of the Court being prevented from attending throughout the trial of an accused; and

(2) any matters (including the exercise of the custody of the accused) which appear to him necessary for carrying into effect or supplementing the provisions of this Part preliminary or ancillary to trials.

PART II.

20. If the Governor General in Council is satisfied that association or representation movements which are, in his opinion, likely to lead to the commission of scheduled offences are being extensively promoted in the whole or any part of British India, he may, by notification in the Gazette of India, make a declaration to that effect, and thereupon the provisions of this Part shall come into force in the area specified in the notification.

Power to make rules. 21. (1) Where, in the opinion of the Local Government, there are reasonable grounds for believing that any person is or has been actively engaged in such area in any movement of the nature referred to in section 20, the Local Government may, by order in writing requiring a declaration to that effect, give all or any of the following directions, namely:—

(a) shall, within such period as may be specified in the order, execute a bond with or without sureties undertaking, for such period not exceeding one year as may be so specified, that he will not possess, or attempt or agree to be armed, or aid the execution of, any offence against any provision of the law which is referred to in its clauses;

(b) shall notify his residence and any change of residence to such authority as may be so specified;

(c) shall remain at night in any house in British India as specified;

(d) shall, if the area so specified includes the province, the Government of the Local Government of that area in the making of the order shall first have been obtained;

(e) shall observe from any act or specified which, in the opinion of the Local Government, is calculated to disturb the public peace or is prejudicial to the public safety; and

(f) shall report himself to the officer in charge of the police station nearest to his residence at such periods as may be so specified.

(2) Any order under clause (b) to (f) may also be made to take effect upon default by the person concerned in complying with an order under clause (a).

22. An order made under section 21 shall be served on the person in respect of whom it is made in the manner provided in the Code for service of summons, and upon such service such person shall be deemed to have due notice thereof.

23. The Local Government and every officer of Government in whom a copy of any order made under section 21 may be divided by, or under the general or special authority of, the Local Government, may use all means necessary to enforce compliance with the same.

24. An order made under section 21 shall only continue in force for a period of one month, unless it is extended by the Local Government as hereinafter provided in this Part.

25. (1) Where the Local Government makes an order under section 21, such Government shall, as soon as may be, forward to the Investigating Authority to be constituted under this Act a written statement in writing setting forth briefly the grounds on which the Government considered it necessary that the order should be made, and shall lay before the investigating authority all material facts and circumstances in its possession relevant to the inquiry.

(2) The investigating authority shall then hold an inquiry in order for the purpose of ascertaining what, in its view, bearing regard to the facts and circumstances referred to by the Government, appears against the person in respect of whom the order has been made. Such authority shall at every stage allow the person in question a reasonable opportunity of appearing before it at some stage in its proceedings and shall, if he so appears, explain to him the nature of the charges made against him and shall have any representation he may have to offer, and shall make such further arrangements, if any, as may seem to it to be necessary to be referred and reasonable.

Provided that the investigating authority shall not disclose to the person whose case is before it any fact the communication of which might endanger the public safety or the safety of any individual.

Provided further that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to entitle the person in question to appear or to be represented before the investigating authority by pleader, and shall the Local Government be so entitled.

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) the inquiry shall be conducted in such manner as the investigating authority considers best suited to show the facts of the case; and in making the inquiry, such authority shall not be bound to observe the rules of the law of evidence.

(4) Any statement made in an investigating authority by any person other than the person whose case is under consideration shall be deemed to be admissible in evidence in a public court within the meaning of section 123 of the Indian Penal Code.

26. (1) On the completion of the inquiry, the investigating authority shall report in writing to the Local Government the conclusions at which it has arrived, and may, if it thinks fit, advise course or steps to be taken.

(2) If the investigating authority has not completed the inquiry within the period for which the duration of the order is limited by section 24, such authority may recommend to the Local Government that the period of duration of the order shall be extended for such period as it may consider necessary, and on such a recommendation, the Local Government may extend the duration of the order accordingly.

Disposal of report. 34. (1) On receipt of the report of the investigating authority, the Local Government may discharge the order made under section 31, or may make any order which is authorised by that section.

Provided that—

(a) any order so made shall revoke the conclusion of the investigating authority as reported by that authority; and

(b) a copy of such order shall be furnished to the person in respect of whom it is made.

(2) An order made under sub-section (1) shall remain in force for more than one year from the date on which it was made.

(3) On the expiry of an order made under sub-section (1), the Local Government may, if it is satisfied that such a review is necessary in the interests of the public safety, again make an order of the same nature as the order which it is authorised by section 31.

(4) If a person who is named in an order made under sub-section (1) is found to have been in the place in which the order was made.

(5) Where an order is made under sub-section (1), a copy of the order shall be furnished to the person in respect of whom it is made, who may submit to the Local Government a representation as to the order in which it is made.

(6) Any order made under sub-section (1) may at any time be discharged or may be altered by the Local Government.

(7) The provisions of section 32 shall apply to the enforcement of orders made under this section.

35. The following Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council on the 2nd March 1913:—

No. 11 of 1913.

A Bill to extend the operation of the Motor Spirit (Duties) Act, 1912.

Whereas it is expedient to extend the operation of the Motor Spirit (Duties) Act, 1912; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

at Madras
the 2nd of March 1913. | 1. This Act may be called the Motor Spirit (Duties) Amendment Act, 1913.
2. In section 2 of the Motor Spirit (Duties) Act, 1912, the word "and" at the end of sub-section (5) and the whole of sub-section (6) shall be omitted. | 11 of 1913. |

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Act 11 of 1912 passed in February of last year provided for the imposition and levy of an engine and vehicle duty of six annas a gallon on motor spirit. The duty was not imposed for the purpose of raising revenue but as a measure with the object of restricting the supply of the fuel to the Government and the public use of the private car and a period of six months thereafter. The tax, though it originated in administrative necessities, has become a useful source of revenue, and the Government of India consider that it cannot conveniently be excluded as a time when it is necessary to impose additional taxation. It is desirable, therefore, in view of the necessity of the means to pay the Motor Spirit (Duties) Act of 1912 which otherwise automatically lapses, to introduce legislation for its extension. It is proposed by the present Bill to effect this by inserting from Act 11 of 1912 the section above.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill proposes to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1912 (Act VIII of 1912), by giving relief to persons with small incomes who have at the present time been seriously affected by the great rise in prices in recent years. While the object of it is proposed to raise the minimum limit of taxable income from Rs. 2,000 to Rs. 2,500 per annum, with effect from the 1st April 1915.

The exemption of persons below Rs. 2,500 from tax will obtain the security for any necessary assessment procedure. Clause 5 of the Bill, therefore, repeals the section of the Income-tax Act, 1912, which dealt with summary assessment.

Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Madras Village Courts Act, 1915

Report of Select Committee, etc., presented to the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

To

THE HONOURABLE THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF
FORT ST. GEORGE FOR MADRAS

LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee, appointed to consider the Bill to amend the Madras Village Courts Act, 1915, have the honour to submit the following report.

1. Letter from M.R.A., Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
2. Letter from M.R.A., Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
3. Letter from the Secretary, Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
4. Letter from the Secretary, Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
5. Letter from the Secretary, Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
6. Letter from the Secretary, Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.
7. Letter from the Secretary, Bangalore, dated 20th July 1915.

2. We have considered all the clauses of the Bill together with (i) the papers noted in the margin which were specifically referred to us, and (ii) a voluminous file of criticisms received in response to G.O. No. 133, Home (Judicial), dated 17th January 1915, directing the publication of the Bill and inviting expressions of opinion with regard thereto.

3. The following are the principal alterations which we have made in the Bill:—

(Clause 5).—We do not consider it expedient generally to exclude the jurisdiction of the existing village council on the establishment of a panchayat court, but we have taken power to confer such exclusion in particular cases if the circumstances indicate that this is desirable.

We have left to rules the exact method of appointing members of panchayat courts, subject to the governing provision that, where the method of election is not applied and appointments are made by the Collector, that officer shall be bound to consult local opinion.

Similarly, while we have taken power in the alternative to authorize a panchayat court to elect its own president or to require the Collector to appoint the president, we have imposed upon the Collector before he makes any appointment the obligation to consider any recommendation made by the panchayathans.

4. Clause 18.—By the new section 30A, which this clause embodies we have made provision enabling district magistrates to transfer to the village courts petty civil suits instituted before them.

5. Clause 18.—In the case of civil proceedings we have provided for the absolute exclusion of legal practitioners from village courts, at the same time authorizing parties to appear by a friend, relation, partner or servant. In criminal cases it is proposed to adopt the same principle, but the new section [76 (5)] incorporated in clause 25 of the Bill intentionally reserves a rule-making power in case it should be found expedient to permit the accused to employ professional aid for his defence. We are advised that these provisions require the previous sanction of the Governor-General under section 79 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1915, since they imply an alteration of the provisions contained in sections 4 to 9 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1878, under which legal practitioners borne on the rolls of the High Court or holding High Court certificates are entitled to practise in any subordinate court.

6. Clause 27.—In the new chapter dealing with criminal jurisdiction we have modified and rearranged the category of offences triable by a panchayat court in such a way as to indicate in sub-heads (a) to (d) the offences which, in our opinion, should ordinarily be so triable, while in sub-head (e) power is taken specifically to notify any other numerous case or so triable.

In sub-section (3) of the same section we have made provision for a reference to the Subdivisional Magistrate for the purpose of ascertaining cases which a panchayat court is unable to realise by the normal procedure, i.e., that prescribed for the execution of civil decrees; while authorizing the Subdivisional Magistrate to impose imprisonment in cases of default, we have expressly limited the term of such imprisonment to one week.

In sub-section (6) of the same section we have reproduced the substance of section 519 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, in order to enable a panchayat court to submit serious criminal cases for adjudication by a court which can inflict an adequate penalty.

7. We have revised the definitions and introduced various verbal amendments in other parts of the Bill, particularly in regard to the new rule-making section 78. This section has been amplified so as to indicate the more important matters in which rules are required, with the intention of securing more elasticity and scope for the amendment from time to time of provisions which, if included as substantive clauses of the Bill, would become rigid and incapable of ready adjustment or repeal.

8. In view of the changes in substance which we have effected we consider that the Bill as amended should be re-published before it is taken into consideration by the Council.

Minister of District.

I consider that it is desirable to remove the concurrent jurisdiction of District Magistrate, whenever possible, to ensure the successful working of the panchayat courts organized under clause 9 of the Bill. Though the provisions contained in clause 16 of the Bill are calculated to discourage parties from resorting to civil courts, they are not quite sufficient for that purpose. It is not possible to remove the concurrent jurisdiction of the District Magistrate, at once, throughout the Presidency. It is however desirable to empower the Governor in Council to remove the jurisdiction of District Magistrate in select areas and confer exclusive jurisdiction on the panchayat courts therein.

2. It is neither necessary nor desirable to disqualify legal practitioners from appearing before village courts, whether in civil or in criminal cases. I was at first inclined to think that the provisions of section 24 of the Village Courts Act, authorizing a party to a suit to appoint any person to appear and plead for him, might be modified in civil cases. It appears to be necessary to obtain the previous sanction of the Governor-General under section 79 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1915, before the proposed change can be effected. The evil sought to be remedied is not as serious as to make it necessary to effect an alteration of the Legal Practitioners Act, after obtaining the previous sanction of the Governor-General. It is not likely that legal practitioners will appear before village courts, in civil cases, to any appreciable extent. Section 24 of the Village Courts Act may be left unaffected. The position is even stronger in the case of criminal cases. It is neither wise nor expedient to deprive an accused person of the right to be defended by a legal practitioner. Section 76 (5) of the Act may be omitted and section 78 (f) may be modified.

3. The provision contained in section 76 (4) of the Act, that the court need not record the evidence of the witnesses, is a dangerous provision likely to lead to a miscarriage of justice. Under section 76 (3) the District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate has been given power to set aside a conviction by a panchayat court on the ground that there has been a gross miscarriage of justice. It is not possible for the District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate to interfere in such cases unless there is, at least, a memorandum containing the substance of the evidence of the witnesses. It is necessary to provide for the panchayat court recording a memorandum of the evidence of witnesses, as in summary cases.

4. It is desirable to restrict the power conferred on panchayat courts under section 76 (6) of the Act to cases where the court is of opinion that the accused ought to receive a punishment different in kind from or more severe than that which it is empowered to inflict. The Subdivisional Magistrate to whom the case is submitted may be also empowered to recommend the case to the panchayat court for disposal.

5. I think that offences punishable under sections 341 and 447 of the Indian Penal Code, offences under the Cattle Trespass Act I of 1871 and offences under section 21 of the Madras Forest Act, 1882, may be specifically included in section 76 (1) of the Act. Panchayat courts have better facilities for rendering substantial justice in cases under the Cattle Trespass Act and Madras Forest Act than stipendiary magistrates.

6. It is suggested to make provision for the withdrawal and dismissal of complaints for the compounding of offences and similar matters in the subordinate portion of the Act itself, instead of in the rules framed by the Governor in Council. The provisions of sections 233, 242 to 245, 246, 249 and 412 of the Code of Criminal Procedure are, mutatis mutandis, in no way applicable to trials of criminal cases by panchayat courts.

7. The powers of a panchayat court in respect of punishments for offences are very limited. It can impose a fine, but cannot pass an order of imprisonment under any circumstances. It is necessary to provide that the offences triable by a panchayat court shall be regarded as bailable offences.

8. The provisions of section 22 of the Village Courts Act relating to the presentation of plaints have to be modified so as to enable plaints to be presented to the village court, a member of a panchayat court or any other person authorized by the village court subject to rules framed by the Governor in Council.

9. It is necessary to modify the provisions of sections 73 and 78 (3) of the Act so as to enable a district itself or subdivisional magistrates to set aside the decision or the conviction passed by a panchayat court, in the case may be, on the ground of corruption, gross partiality or misconduct on the part of any member or members of a panchayat court.

A. S. KRISHNA RAO.

The provisions of the Bill as originally introduced have been subjected to a good deal of criticism and have considerably been modified by the Select Committee. There are however a few points on which I feel more strongly than my colleagues. One of them relates to the jurisdiction of the panchayat court. Clause 9 empowers the Governor in Council to declare that no Court of a Village Munsif appointed under section 7 shall, on the establishment of a panchayat court, exercise jurisdiction in the same area. I consider that it is also desirable that the Governor in Council should be similarly empowered to take away the concurrent jurisdiction of the District Munsif. It may not be possible to introduce the change at once throughout the Presidency; but I am of opinion that in regard to the trial of civil suits whenever a panchayat court is established the jurisdiction of all other courts should be withdrawn whenever it is possible to do so. I do not suggest that this should be the invariable rule but I think the Governor in Council should take power to curtail the jurisdiction of the District Munsif whenever conditions are suitable and where there is no fear of any miscarriage of justice.

2. I am not in favour of prohibiting legal practitioners from appearing in village courts. I was at first inclined to deter them from appearing in civil cases. I am not, under any circumstances, prepared to deprive an accused person appearing before a panchayat court of the right to be defended by a legal practitioner in cases when it may be found necessary to do so; while I do not believe that legal practitioners enrolled under the Legal Practitioners Act are likely to be employed to any appreciable extent in village courts, I am of opinion that a statutory bar is undesirable even if the Government of India are willing to sanction the insertion of such a provision in the Bill.

3. It is not desirable to relegate the provisions relating to the withdrawal, dismissal and compounding of offences and the payment of compensation to rules to be framed under clause 78 of the Bill. Suitable provisions should, in my opinion, be made in the Bill itself.

M. RAMACHANDRA RAO.
